

IN-SERVICE TEACHER TRAINING PROGRAMME

With the changing times, the responsibilities of a teacher are also growing. Therefore, it has become very important for teachers to hone their teaching skills now and then so that they can satisfy the curiosity of the enthusiastic students. For evolving such an important factor Shivalik Public School Phase VI, Mohali initiated its Annual INSET Programme which will continue from 28th May to 2nd June, 2018 for around 300 teachers from all the branches of Shivalik Public School located in Chandigarh, Nawan Shehar, Patiala and Mohali. The programme aims at training the teachers to be adept with 21st century tools and teaching skills. The day began with the school prayer, thought of the day and moral story teaching the life skills. Yesterday's proceedings were well recapitulated before starting the day's session. Mr. D.S.Bedi, addressed the teachers with a motivating and inspiring message highlighting the fact that "If teachers don't act as learners, they cannot keep themselves abreast with the 21st century pedagogical developments". The second day of the programme has been very fruitful as Dr. Anupama Mankotya, from Oxford University Press, showcased quite an interactive and interesting learning session on "Being an effective teacher for 21st century." The faculty members of the Mohali branch also gave illuminating PowerPoint Presentations on the Digital tool and classrooms of 21st century. The afternoon session was headed by Mr. Sandeep Sharma focusing on the need to "Learn, Unlearn and Relearn." On the whole the day provided the teachers with a 21st century learner's perspective to integrate digital technology within their classrooms. An interesting and enriching approach towards education was well progressed today.
